Research Perspectives in Modern Development Economics

Dr. Miri Stryjan

With examples from her own research on microfinance programs in Uganda, Miri will give an accessible overview of what modern development economics is all about. She hopes for a fruitful discussion about how economics, as a quantitative social science, can be connected to the other social sciences and humanities.

Tuesday, 10.4.18 at 16:00
Herzog Seminar Room
(Room 326, building 74)
Ben Gurion University