in gaming, robotics and virtual realities and how they relate to what is perceived as real...

...actions have great consequences. This book is also one of the things that led me to my interest in perception of the world, how to influence people, what to believe and how sometimes our psychological and deals with the coming of age of a boy facing questions of learning, especially powerful. It is science fiction, which deals with fighting and survival, but is actually very psychological and deals with the coming of age of a boy facing questions of learning, especially powerful. It is science fiction, which deals with fighting and survival, but is actually...