KEY SPEAKER

CHRIS HOUGHTON

Head of Digital Scholarship,
Gale International

Chris Houghton has spent 18 years working in Academic publishing and software in a range of customer-facing and product development roles. As Head of Digital Scholarship for Gale International, Chris is chiefly concerned with the new Gale Digital Scholar Lab; working with customers to extract most value from their Gale Primary Sources for use in Digital Humanities, and ensuring that international customers' voices are central to the ongoing growth of this exciting new stage of Gale's development.

Meeting customers around the world gives Chris the opportunity to indulge his passions for sampling local cuisine and exploring new cities by running (slowly) through them.
