In the talk I will describe a framework for relation learning and building of domain-specific relation extraction systems (Visual Care). I will demonstrate several applications of the framework in the domains of mining public medical forums and financial news and blogs. The case studies demonstrate the ability of the system to achieve high accuracy of relation identification and extraction with minimal human supervision. I will also describe and demonstrate the performance of VC’s modifier learning mechanism and coreference resolution.