

Azrikam Amram

Azri Amram gained his B.A. degree in General History from the Hebrew University and currently he is a PhD student in Sociology and Anthropology. Azri worked most of his adult life as a television correspondent covering crime, justice and welfare in Israel for Channel 2 news. His current research focuses on anthropological research of food and culture in Israel .