Stress Management in Health Care Organizations:

Summary:

Stress is a significant issue for managers and employees in health care organizations. The price of stress for employees in health care organizations and patients is high. There is a great importance in understanding the causes and consequences of stress, and in developing ways to deal with stress.

The course is intended to provide managers in health care organizations with an understanding of these phenomena, their sources and consequences, with a focus on ways to cope with stress, in order to improve the well-being of employees and patients in health care organizations.

Course Grade:

- Exam 70%
- Project 30%

Course materials:

ISBN: 253103030
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>נושאים קורס</th>
<th>מספרים קריאה</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>נושאים</td>
<td>Norman, Donald. 2002 The Design of Everyday Things, Ch. 1.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>