

Yuval Yekutieli is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Bible, Archaeology and the Ancient Near East, at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, and Head of its Archaeology Division. He completed BA and PhD at Ben-Gurion University in the division of Archaeology, and MA at Tel-Aviv University in the department of Archaeology. His research focuses on the Negev, and his fieldwork included excavations and surveys in the Judean Desert, Timna, Ashkelon, Nizzanim, Ben-Shemen, Tel Haror, and many other places. He investigates the Southern Levantine Bronze Ages and his latest publications deal with issues of power and control in antiquity , ancient colonialism and landscape archaeology. In 2008-09 Yuval Yekutieli was a visiting research scholar at NYU's Institute for the Study of the Ancient World.