Call for articles for a special issue on The Centenary of the British Mandate for Palestine

With the approaching centenary of the inception of the British Mandate for Palestine in 1922, the Editorial Board of Israel Studies invites scholars to contribute to a special issue that would interrogate inter alia, the impact of the Mandate on cultural, political, social, legal, economic, and ecological developments; perspectives on leading individuals and significant groups; changes among ethnic and religious minorities; and the impact of the international community and external events on the Jewish and Palestinian populations.

Welcome are proposals for original, unpublished articles that analyze the state of contemporary scholarship and contribute new perspectives.

Proposals consisting of an abstract (no more than 400 words) should be submitted to istudies@bgu.ac.il no later than May 1, 2020. Notification regarding proposals will be sent by July 1, 2020. Final accepted articles are due no later than January 31, 2021 and should be no longer than 7,000 words, including an abstract, text, notes, and illustrations. All articles are peer reviewed.
