

Routledge - 320 pp.

This book focuses on the bi-lateral and multilateral relations between Britain, the 'former proprietor' and Israel, the 'successor state', during the period following their armed clash in January 1949, to Israel's withdrawal from the Gaza and the Sinai in March 1957. It highlights the formulation of foreign policy decisions in Britain and Israel; Britain's special responsibility and influence, which affected Israel's relations with neighbouring Arab states; Israel's complex policy towards Britain; Anglo-Jewry's attitude towards Israel and the distinctive relationship between Israel's embassy in London and the Jewish community. The book is based on a profusion of material from twenty-six public archives and fourteen collections of private papers. Dr. Aridan also collected thirty-one personal and collected testimonies from ex-Prime Ministers, policy makers, senior Foreign Office officials, Israel diplomats and attachés and Anglo-Jewish leaders.

Dr. Natan Aridan is a research fellow at the Ben-Gurion Research Institute for the Study of Israel and Zionism, Sede-Boker, Israel and edits the journal, Israel Studies. He is a lecturer on Israeli diplomatic history and Israel-Diaspora relations in the Department of Jewish History, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev.
