

Dorit Efrat-Treister has completed her PhD in Organizational Psychology at the Technion-Israel Institute of technology, at the department of Industrial Engineering and Management. She continued as a post-doctoral fellow at the Sauder School of Business, the University of British Columbia.

Today she is a lecturer at the Guilford Glazer Faculty of Business and Management, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, Department of Management.

Her main research fields are:

- 1) Aggression in Organizations - The antecedents of aggression in customer service organizations, organizational management focused on moderating aggression in organizations.
- 2) Emotions in organizations - The influence of emotions on social cognition and virtual communication.
- 3) Creativity and problem solving abilities.
- 3) Cross-Cultural Management - Cultural sensitivity and accessibility, cross cultural variations in social perception.
- 4) Time Perception - Antecedents of time perception, queue management.
- 5) Work-family balance.
- 6) Construal-Level Theory

Her work has been published in the Journal of Applied Psychology and the Journal of Organizational Behavior.

She teaches the following courses: macro organizational behavior, stress in organizations, stress management in health care organizations, and human factors engineering.