

Dr. Chen Cohen received her Ph.D. in Economics from Ben-Gurion University. She is a Lecturer in the Department of Public Policy & Administration at the Guilford Glazer Faculty of Business & Management. Chen's primary research interests are applied and theoretical Game Theory as well as Contests and Auctions, with application to environment quality, green energy, sport competitions and political contests. Chen had previous academic appointments at the Academic College of Ashkelon and the Open University of Israel and served as a senior consultant for some of the major green energy production companies in Israel.