Name of the Course:

"Issues in Research on Teaching and Learning in Schools"

Course Code:

MS 12910278-12910288

Course Lecturer:

Adam Lapidus

Lecture Schedule:

By agreement in advance

Lecture Hall:

Building 72, Room 135

Course Objectives:

- Familiarize students with central theories in the interdisciplinary study of teaching and learning in schools.
- Enable students to express these theories in analyzing teaching and learning activities in schools.
- Introduce various research approaches to teaching and learning in the classroom, including their advantages and disadvantages.
- Enable students to critically analyze research papers, policy documents, and recommendations for teaching reform in the field.

Lecture Topics:

- The Teaching Profession - a Simple Complex
- The Introduction to Teaching Theory
- What Happens in the Class? Naturalist Analysis
- How to Observe Classes
- Teaching and Communication in the Classroom - Gender Analysis
- Knowledge and Information in the Classroom
- Questions and Answers
- Teaching and Communication in Israeli Schools - Is There a "Israeli" Pedagogy?
- Power Relations in the Classroom
- Processes of Building Social Identity
- Teaching and Communication in Another Classroom - What is the Difference between "Israelite"?
- Pedagogical Strategies (Direct Teaching, Inquiry-Based Learning, Collaborative Learning, Direct Teaching - Online, Academic Discussion and Other Strategies)
- Teacher Evaluation
- Improving Teaching
- Teacher Learning

