The Department of Philosophy at Ben-Gurion University is seeking a female or male candidate for a tenured position in philosophy (in the赛道). The position will begin with a starting salary in 2022 (October 2022).

Position Description

The Department of Philosophy at Ben-Gurion University places a strong emphasis on excellence in teaching and research, as a small department, all members of the department take an active role in the management of the department and the university. Members of the faculty are expected to participate in competitive research grants.

The position includes mandatory teaching of courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and the position may also include the teaching of introductory courses in Philosophy. The position also includes mentoring of students, both at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Minimum Requirements:

The position is open to anyone who has a PhD in Philosophy by the date of application.

The position is in Hebrew, therefore candidates must be able to teach and work in Hebrew.

Recruiting process:

The Department is planning to recommend a shortlist of candidates to visit the campus, which will include a seminar, interviews, and meetings with the faculty. In the case of candidates residing abroad who are unable to visit the campus, arrangements will be made for the seminar and interview to be conducted remotely.

Applications should include:

1. A cover letter
2. Updated CV including a list of publications
3. A summary of research plans and research goals of the candidate for the next few years.
4. A list of courses the candidate would like to teach in the Department
5. Research portfolio (if available)
6. 3-5 recommendation letters (please list names of those seeking promotion to Associate Professor, 4 letters)

Closing date for applications: January 21, 2022

Applications should be submitted via the following link:
https://bguacademicrecruitment.force.com/Recruiters/VF_BGUMain

For more information contact the Head of the Philosophy Department, Andy Germain (andr@bgu.ac.il) or the Secretary of the Philosophy Department, Mirel Ben-Shemer (benshmer@bgu.ac.il)
Tenure-track Position in Philosophy at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, Israel

The Department of Philosophy at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev seeks to appoint an outstanding philosopher to a tenure-track position, beginning October 2022.

Job Description and Requirements: The Department welcomes applications from all candidates, but is particularly seeking philosophers working in areas not currently covered by the faculty. Priority will therefore be given to candidates with proven research and teaching records in one or more of the following fields: (i) Political Philosophy/Social Philosophy (ii) Philosophy of Social Science/Economics, (iii) Philosophy of Religion/ Medieval Philosophy, (iv) Phenomenology, (v) the Continental philosophical tradition, (vi) Philosophy of Mathematics; (vii) Logic and Philosophy of Logic (viii) Philosophy of Language.

The Department of Philosophy at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev sets the highest value on excellence in both teaching and research. We are a relatively small department and all members play an active role in the administration of the department and are expected to contribute to the governance of the university. Members of the department are expected to compete for external research funding.

Responsibilities include teaching required and elective courses in the candidate’s area of specialization at both the B.A. and M.A. levels and, possibly, general introductory courses in philosophy as well. Members are also expected to advise and mentor our undergraduate and also graduate students at the M.A. and Ph.D. levels.

Qualifications: The language of instruction and departmental and university governance is Hebrew. Accordingly, candidates will be expected to be capable of teaching and working in Hebrew.

The position is open to all candidates who hold a Ph.D. in philosophy. Candidates must have a degree in hand by the application date.

Application Process: We aim to invite short-listed candidates to a campus visit, which will include a job talk, an interview, and informal meetings with department members. Applicants who are overseas may be asked to give a talk and meet with the department from afar. Applications must include:

1) A short cover letter.
2) An updated curriculum vitae, including list of publications.
3) A short research statement describing the candidate’s research goals for the coming years; please include a representative list of courses you would want to teach.
4) Teaching evaluations (if available).
5) Three/four letters of recommendations. (Candidates hoping to be appointed as Senior Lecturers will need four to five letters of recommendation.)
6) Two writing samples.

Application deadline: 21 January 2022

Apply online here: https://bguacademicrecruitment.force.com/Recruiters/VF_BGUMain

We recommend opening an application file as soon as possible and entering the names of recommenders, so as to allow sufficient time to upload their letters before the deadline!

For further details about the position, please contact the department chair, Andy German (andyr@bgu.ac.il). Please address administrative queries to Merav Ben-Shushan Zach (benshmer@bgu.ac.il).